

THE IMPRACTICAL JOKERS

The Tenderloins is a New York-based comedy troupe whose four members – Joe Gatto, James Murray, Brian Quinn and Sal Vulcano – are the creators, executive producers, and stars of truTV’s hit television series, Impractical Jokers. Now in its eighth season, Impractical Jokers follows The Tenderloins as they dare one another into performing public pranks while being filmed by hidden cameras. When Sal, Joe, Q, and Murr challenge each other to say or do something, they have to do it. And if they refuse, they lose. At the end of every episode, the biggest loser must endure a punishment of epic proportions.

In addition to the top-rated television show, the Troupe has toured steadily over the last four years with its highly successful, “Where’s Larry?” & “Santiago Sent Us,” tours playing to hundreds of thousands of fans in the US and UK, including three sold-out nights at Radio City Music Hall, a sold-out performance at Madison Square Garden, and five sold-out shows at London’s O2 Arena.

Natives of Staten Island, NY, Sal, Joe, Murr and Q met while attending high school and later formed The Tenderloins Comedy Troupe in 1999. After years of performing live improv and sketch comedy shows, The Tenderloins crossed over to the web, garnering millions of views for their internet sketches, eventually creating the runaway success Impractical Jokers series for truTV. The series is one of the top-rated original comedy series on cable in the US and is the #1 show on Comedy Central in the United Kingdom and India.

On Saturday, July 12, 2018, Sal, Q, Joe, and Murr attended the opening of Impractical Jokers: Homecoming, their first ever museum exhibition at the Staten Island Museum which ran for nine months and attracted visitors from around the world.